For Shareholders of AllianceBernstein Municipal Income Fund II—Florida Portfolio

The Board of Directors of AllianceBernstein Municipal Income Fund II—Florida Portfolio (“Florida Portfolio”) has approved our recommendation for the AllianceBernstein Municipal Income Fund—National Portfolio (“National Portfolio”) to acquire Florida Portfolio.

This change reflects our ongoing effort to meet shareholders’ needs effectively by evaluating our family of funds relative to the evolving market landscape. Based on our most recent research, we’ve concluded that the acquisition of Florida Portfolio by National Portfolio will improve our ability to pursue attractive investment opportunities in the most efficient manner for our shareholders.

Why are you combining National Portfolio and Florida Portfolio?

- On January 1, 2007, the state of Florida repealed its intangibles tax, which had previously granted tax-advantaged status to Florida Municipal Bonds. As a result, the universe of eligible portfolio securities for Florida Portfolio and National Portfolio is now identical.
- In addition to sharing the same eligible investment universe, National Portfolio and Florida Portfolio now effectively have the same investment objective—to earn the highest level of current income, exempt from Federal taxation. Each Portfolio pursues its objective by investing principally in high-yielding, predominantly investment grade, municipal securities.

- The acquisition of the relatively small Florida Portfolio assets by the larger National Portfolio, will provide current Florida Portfolio shareholders with a more diversified investment with lower expenses. The table below shows the current expense ratios for Florida Portfolio and the pro forma expense ratios if Florida Portfolio were combined with National Portfolio. Additionally, the shareholders of AllianceBernstein Municipal Income Fund—National Portfolio II, which has the same investment objective as National Portfolio, are being asked to approve the acquisition of that Portfolio by National Portfolio. Also included in the table below are the pro forma expense ratios for National Portfolio assuming both acquisitions are completed.

Expense Ratio—Class A

	Class A Gross Expense Ratio	Class A Net Expense Ratio (reflects expense cap)
Florida Portfolio	0.98%	0.78%
Florida Portfolio w/ National Portfolio (pro forma)	0.89	0.75
Florida Portfolio w/ National and National II (pro forma)	0.87	0.75

Will merging the two funds impact my investment's risk/return profile?

No. Both funds seek to earn the highest level of current income exempt from Federal taxation without taking undue risk.

Do the funds share the same benchmark?

Yes. The Barclays Capital Municipal Bond Index is the benchmark for both funds.

Do the Lipper categories differ for the funds?

Yes. Lipper classifies Florida Portfolio in the Florida Municipal Bond Funds category and the National Portfolio in the General Municipal Debt Funds category. We anticipate Lipper will continue to classify National Portfolio in its current category.

Does the combination require any repositioning of the portfolio of investments?

No. We don't anticipate that the combination will require any material repositioning.

Will I incur any processing fees from this combination?

No. Shareholders won't pay any special processing fees due to this combination.

Is this a taxable event?

No. Shareholders won't recognize any capital gains or losses as a result of the combination.

Will there be any special distributions associated with the acquisition?

Any income and/or capital gain distributions (if necessary) from the Florida Portfolio would be made to its shareholders prior to the merger date.

What should I do with my share certificates?

Your outstanding share certificates for Florida Portfolio will be null and void after the acquisition. You don't need to return the certificates, but we'll accept them if you mail them to:

Timing

Acquisition by National Portfolio

When will the shareholder vote take place?

We've scheduled a shareholder meeting for May 21, 2009. If we don't obtain the required majority of shareholder votes by May 21, 2009, we'll likely adjourn the meeting for further solicitation and will reschedule the vote for a later date.

How will shareholders be notified of the upcoming vote?

We'll notify existing shareholders as of record date March 31, 2009, via a proxy statement on or about April 8, 2009. Only those shareholders owning shares in Florida Portfolio as of the record date will be eligible to vote.

If approved, when would the acquisition take place?

To proceed with the acquisition, we must receive the required majority of shareholder votes. Once this is complete, the acquisition would take place as soon as practicable—most likely in June 2009.

A Word About Risk

Price fluctuations in the Portfolio's securities may be caused by changes in the general level of interest rates or changes in bond credit quality ratings. Changes in interest rates have a greater effect on bonds with longer maturities than on those with shorter maturities. Please note, as interest rates rise, existing bond prices fall and can cause the value of your investment in the Portfolio to decline. Municipal income securities may realize gains; therefore, shareholders will incur a tax liability from time to time. Income may be subject to state and local taxes and/or the alternative minimum tax. A municipal security could be downgraded or its issuer could default in payment of principal or interest. If applicable, for bonds that are issued at higher interest rates, the issuer may exercise its right to recall some or all of the outstanding bonds to investors prior to their maturity. Individual state municipal portfolios are non-diversified and subject to geographic risk including greater risk of adverse economic conditions and regulatory changes based on their narrow investment objectives. While the Portfolio invests principally in bonds and other fixed-income securities, in order to achieve its investment objectives, the Portfolio may at times use certain types of investment derivatives, such as options, futures, forwards and swaps. These instruments involve risks different from, and in certain cases, greater than, the risks presented by more traditional investments. These risks are fully discussed in the Portfolio's prospectus.

An investor should consider the investment objectives, risks and charges and expenses of a fund carefully before investing.
